Do I need to take special precautions?

Some people may be more vulnerable to contamination by drinking water than the general population. These include compromised persons such as persons with recent underlying immunosuppression, persons who had liver damage from organ transplantation, people with HIV/AIDS, or other immune system disorders, recent surgery, and infants who are not yet fully vaccinated. These people should seek out more specific drinking water advice from their health care providers. EPA's Office for Drinking Water (ODW) publishes an appropriate means to reduce the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants not available here at Safe Water Drinking Hotline (800-426-4761).

Where does my water come from?
Our water flows from the north, and all the way across the state, the Colorado River and the San Juan River. The Fort Collins Water Authority.

These water assessment plans are available for review upon request. Please contact the Certified Operator, Fred Vito, at the phone number listed below for more information on water contamination assessment.

Why are there cocoonfish in my drinking water?
Drinking water from behind walls may contain the highest percentage of leech cocoons found. The presence of cocoonfish does not necessarily indicate that there is a health risk. Most municipal water treatment and potability health officers are educated by calling the Leishmaniasis Prevention Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline 1-800-632-4444.

How are I get involved?
Our annual week of starting is on the fourth Thursday of July each year at 1.00 p.m. at the Central Synagogue, Finsbury. This is a very special occasion, in which all newcomers are encouraged to attend.

Water Quality Data Table

Water Quality Data Table

The data in this report is the drinking water consumption estimate derived using the end-use type of a residence. The priority of the report is to show that water use is not necessarily related to the water person's health. (Source: California Water Use with a Different Face, the data presented in this report is from 1990, which is the calendar year of the data.) The EPA and the American Water Works Association of California are working to improve the current estimates with data from a new flow and use measurement of these water users in the coming months.
